

Rebuild the workshop. Resume tire filling.

PLAN B is Spray Service's project supporting Ukraine's military. We want to restart tire filling for wheeled ground drones (unmanned ground vehicles).

Our work

We filled tires with polymer material in place of air. The aim is to help wheels keep moving after damage. Modular wheels and lighter tire fillings remain in development.

What happened

On 6 July 2026, we lost our workshop, equipment and materials in Vyshneve following a Russian strike and the subsequent detonation of an ammunition depot in the city. Construction and equipment purchases have not yet begun.

Why we need support

Our prices included materials, wages and running costs, but we did not build up a reserve large enough to rebuild the workshop.

Our plan to restart

01

A new workshop designed around staff safety and independent power.

02

New machinery, tools and a stock of materials.

03

Restart tire filling and cover the first months of operation.

Preliminary budget: approximately USD 6.44 million

First-phase estimate covering a new production site, equipment, restart, the first six months of operation and a contingency reserve. Costs will be refined through detailed design and supplier quotations.
